POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

SUPERVISING ARCHAEOLOGIST

AINW has a full-time, regular position open for a supervising archaeologist in its Portland Office. Minimum requirements include a M.A. or M.S. degree in anthropology or closely related field and 3 to 5 years of archaeological experience, including supervision of field personnel. The successful candidate will also have strong scientific writing skills and the ability to collaborate and work with other staff to prepare professional reports. The position requires working cooperatively with managers, technical staff, and administrative staff.

Familiarity with cultural resource management laws and regulations and Pacific Northwest archaeology, history, and geography is strongly desired. This position requires that the individual meets the Secretary of Interiors' professional qualifications standards.

A supervising archaeologist is expected to manage and supervise field crews and collect, analyze, and interpret field and laboratory data under the direction of senior staff. As much as half of the time may be spent performing fieldwork, and a valid driving license is necessary. The individual must not have violations on her or his driving record that would disallow commercial coverage for auto insurance. The ability to qualify for an excavation permit in Oregon and Washington is desired.

In addition to experience and skills in artifact identification and in field survey and excavation techniques, clear written and verbal communication is essential. The ideal candidate will also have skills in using GPS, EDM (total station), and GIS software.

This is a regular, full-time position that includes benefits and requires living within the Portland-Vancouver commuting area. There is no closing date on this position. The position will be filled when the appropriate candidate has been selected, so we encourage those interested to respond as soon as possible.

If you are interested in applying for this position, please send a letter of interest and availability, a current resume/vita, and the names and contact information of three references that can provide information about your capabilities and employment experience.
